Panel 1: A Spark in the Moss

Scene: Foxy, a small and curious orange fox with oversized ears, cautiously pokes a glowing, slightly grumpy-looking star nestled in a mossy patch on the forest floor.

TITLE: GRAVITY?S WORST ENEMY

PANEL 1: A Spark in the Moss

[VISUAL:]
Twilight in the Whispering Woods. Deep velvety blues and mossy greens fill the scene. FOXY, a pint-sized orange fox with adorably oversized ears and a fluffy white-tipped tail, crouches low. With wide, curious eyes, he extends one paw to gingerly poke a small, luminous yellow star stuck in a thick bed of moss. The STAR has stubby little arms, a faint golden aura, and an unmistakably grumpy scowl on its face.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Evening strolls through the woods usually turned up pinecones, stray mushrooms, or the occasional snoozing beetle.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Fallen pieces of the cosmos, however, were not on the evening schedule.

SFX:

POKE.

FOXY:
?Uh? hello? Are you a very spicy fungus, or did the moon accidentally drop a snack??

THE STAR:
(Sizzles irritably)
<BZZZT! Squeak!>

PANEL 2: Enter the Expert

[VISUAL:]
A chubby, frantic BARNABY THE OWL hangs completely upside-down from an overhead birch branch, flapping his wings dramatically. His round spectacles sit hopelessly crooked across his beak, one lens magnifying a crazed, starry eye. Below, Foxy cradles the star in his paws like an oversized, glowing potato, squinting up at the owl with pure deadpan skepticism.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Enter the forest?s self-appointed resident scholar?whether anyone asked for his expertise or not.

BARNABY:
?A fungus?! Balderdash! Poppycock! What you hold in your paws is a celestial runaway! An astronomical absentee! It belongs to the infinite majestic tapestry of the NIGHT!?

FOXY:
?Cool speech. Your glasses belong on your face, but here we are.?

PANEL 3: The Slingshot Blunder

[VISUAL:]
Disaster in mid-motion! The duo has rigged a thick wild grapevine between two birch trees to form a colossal slingshot. The vine has horribly backfired: instead of launching the star, a stray loop has caught Barnaby around the tail feathers. The owl is being violently whipped backward into the bushes in a blur of feathers, screeching in horror. The grumpy star remains safely seated on a stump, completely unfazed.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan A: Aerodynamic Elasticity.
Otherwise known as an absolute catastrophe.

SFX:
TWAAANGGG-SNAP!

BARNABY:
?FEAR NOT, STELLAR FOUNDLING! SCIENCE WILL RETU?HOOOOO-WHEEEEEEEEEE!?

FOXY:
(Cringing, ears pinned flat)
?Barnaby, watch out for the briar pa?yep, that?s the briar patch.?

THE STAR:
<Tch.>

PANEL 4: The Seesaw Launch

[VISUAL:]
Dynamic high-angle shot! A bruised, ruffled Barnaby is in full swan-dive mode, belly-flopping through the air off a towering boulder. Down below, a thick wooden log is balanced across a mossy boulder like a seesaw. Foxy holds the star steady at the raised tip of the log, bracing with his back against the wood and teeth gritted in anticipation. The star?s eyes go wide as it suddenly realizes what?s about to happen.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan B: Kinetic Displacement.
(Or: launching things by hitting other things very, very hard.)

BARNABY:
(Screaming like a hawk, belly puffed)
?BRACE FOR RETRO-THRUST, FOXY! MAXIMUM MASS INCOMING!?

FOXY:
?Three? two? PLEASE HIT THE TARGET THIS TIME!?

THE STAR:
(Glow flaring bright with alarm)
<EEEEEP!>

PANEL 5: Back Where It Belongs

[VISUAL:]
A glorious panoramic payoff under a dazzling night sky. A brilliant streak of sparkling stardust arcs high into the atmosphere, where the star is now joyfully grinning and twinkling in its proper place in the constellation. Down below, Foxy jumps for joy with paws raised in triumph. Next to him, Barnaby?s plump feathered rear end and spindly talons stick straight up out of the dirt, wiggling frantically where he planted headfirst into the mud.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Liftoff achieved. Another successful triumph for woodland science! Sort of.

SFX (SKY):
FWHHH-SHIIINGG!

SFX (GROUND):
THWUMP.

FOXY:
?We did it! Barnaby, look! It?s right back in the Big Dipper!?

BARNABY:
(Muffled entirely beneath three inches of forest loam)
?Mmmph! Splendid! Truly textbook! Now? would anyone mind excavating the scientific community?!?

Panel 2: Enter the Expert

Scene: A chubby, eccentric owl wearing crooked spectacles hangs upside down from a tree branch, passionately gesturing toward the sky as Foxy holds the glowing star with a skeptical expression.

TITLE: GRAVITY?S WORST ENEMY

PANEL 1: A Spark in the Moss

[VISUAL:]
Twilight in the Whispering Woods. Deep velvety blues and mossy greens fill the scene. FOXY, a pint-sized orange fox with adorably oversized ears and a fluffy white-tipped tail, crouches low. With wide, curious eyes, he extends one paw to gingerly poke a small, luminous yellow star stuck in a thick bed of moss. The STAR has stubby little arms, a faint golden aura, and an unmistakably grumpy scowl on its face.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Evening strolls through the woods usually turned up pinecones, stray mushrooms, or the occasional snoozing beetle.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Fallen pieces of the cosmos, however, were not on the evening schedule.

SFX:

POKE.

FOXY:
?Uh? hello? Are you a very spicy fungus, or did the moon accidentally drop a snack??

THE STAR:
(Sizzles irritably)
<BZZZT! Squeak!>

PANEL 2: Enter the Expert

[VISUAL:]
A chubby, frantic BARNABY THE OWL hangs completely upside-down from an overhead birch branch, flapping his wings dramatically. His round spectacles sit hopelessly crooked across his beak, one lens magnifying a crazed, starry eye. Below, Foxy cradles the star in his paws like an oversized, glowing potato, squinting up at the owl with pure deadpan skepticism.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Enter the forest?s self-appointed resident scholar?whether anyone asked for his expertise or not.

BARNABY:
?A fungus?! Balderdash! Poppycock! What you hold in your paws is a celestial runaway! An astronomical absentee! It belongs to the infinite majestic tapestry of the NIGHT!?

FOXY:
?Cool speech. Your glasses belong on your face, but here we are.?

PANEL 3: The Slingshot Blunder

[VISUAL:]
Disaster in mid-motion! The duo has rigged a thick wild grapevine between two birch trees to form a colossal slingshot. The vine has horribly backfired: instead of launching the star, a stray loop has caught Barnaby around the tail feathers. The owl is being violently whipped backward into the bushes in a blur of feathers, screeching in horror. The grumpy star remains safely seated on a stump, completely unfazed.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan A: Aerodynamic Elasticity.
Otherwise known as an absolute catastrophe.

SFX:
TWAAANGGG-SNAP!

BARNABY:
?FEAR NOT, STELLAR FOUNDLING! SCIENCE WILL RETU?HOOOOO-WHEEEEEEEEEE!?

FOXY:
(Cringing, ears pinned flat)
?Barnaby, watch out for the briar pa?yep, that?s the briar patch.?

THE STAR:
<Tch.>

PANEL 4: The Seesaw Launch

[VISUAL:]
Dynamic high-angle shot! A bruised, ruffled Barnaby is in full swan-dive mode, belly-flopping through the air off a towering boulder. Down below, a thick wooden log is balanced across a mossy boulder like a seesaw. Foxy holds the star steady at the raised tip of the log, bracing with his back against the wood and teeth gritted in anticipation. The star?s eyes go wide as it suddenly realizes what?s about to happen.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan B: Kinetic Displacement.
(Or: launching things by hitting other things very, very hard.)

BARNABY:
(Screaming like a hawk, belly puffed)
?BRACE FOR RETRO-THRUST, FOXY! MAXIMUM MASS INCOMING!?

FOXY:
?Three? two? PLEASE HIT THE TARGET THIS TIME!?

THE STAR:
(Glow flaring bright with alarm)
<EEEEEP!>

PANEL 5: Back Where It Belongs

[VISUAL:]
A glorious panoramic payoff under a dazzling night sky. A brilliant streak of sparkling stardust arcs high into the atmosphere, where the star is now joyfully grinning and twinkling in its proper place in the constellation. Down below, Foxy jumps for joy with paws raised in triumph. Next to him, Barnaby?s plump feathered rear end and spindly talons stick straight up out of the dirt, wiggling frantically where he planted headfirst into the mud.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Liftoff achieved. Another successful triumph for woodland science! Sort of.

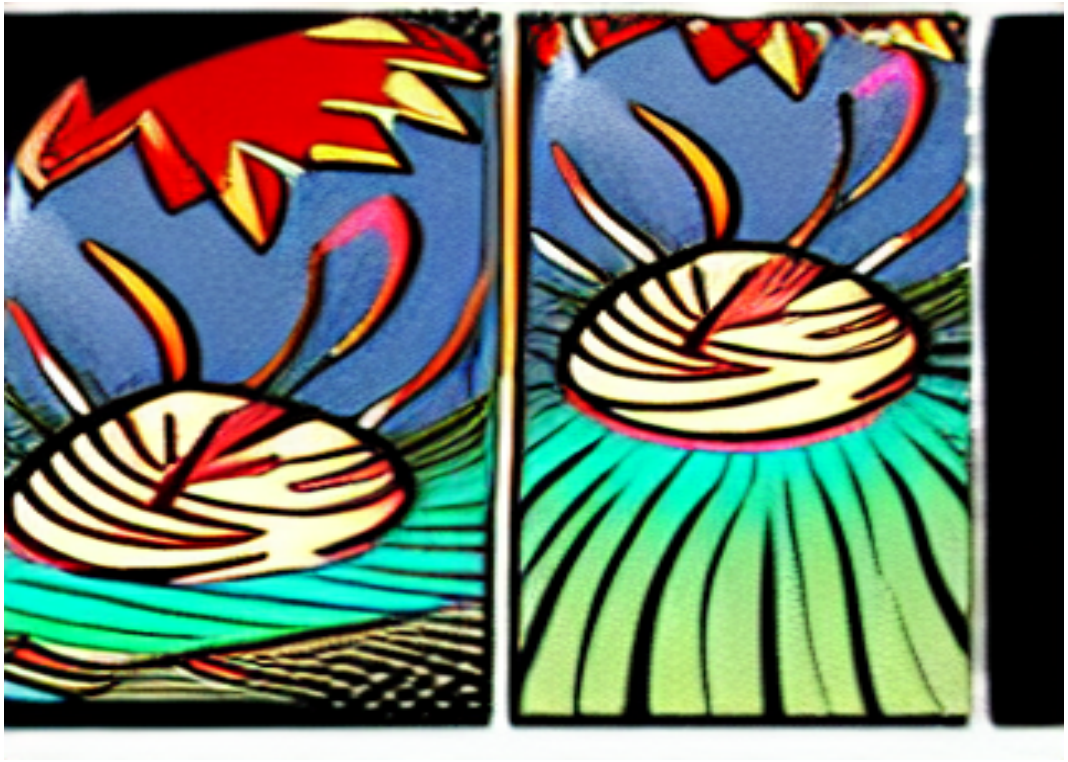

SFX (SKY):
FWHHH-SHIIINGG!

SFX (GROUND): THWUMP.

FOXY:
?We did it! Barnaby, look! It?s right back in the Big Dipper!?

BARNABY:
(Muffled entirely beneath three inches of forest loam)
?Mmmph! Splendid! Truly textbook! Now? would anyone mind excavating the scientific community?!?

Panel 3: The Slingshot Blunder

Scene: Foxy and the owl construct a makeshift giant slingshot between two birch trees, but the vine snaps back, comically propelling the screeching owl backward instead of the star.

TITLE: GRAVITY?S WORST ENEMY

PANEL 1: A Spark in the Moss

[VISUAL:]
Twilight in the Whispering Woods. Deep velvety blues and mossy greens fill the scene. FOXY, a pint-sized orange fox with adorably oversized ears and a fluffy white-tipped tail, crouches low. With wide, curious eyes, he extends one paw to gingerly poke a small, luminous yellow star stuck in a thick bed of moss. The STAR has stubby little arms, a faint golden aura, and an unmistakably grumpy scowl on its face.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Evening strolls through the woods usually turned up pinecones, stray mushrooms, or the occasional snoozing beetle.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Fallen pieces of the cosmos, however, were not on the evening schedule.

SFX:

POKE.

FOXY:
?Uh? hello? Are you a very spicy fungus, or did the moon accidentally drop a snack??

THE STAR:
(Sizzles irritably)
<BZZZT! Squeak!>

PANEL 2: Enter the Expert

[VISUAL:]
A chubby, frantic BARNABY THE OWL hangs completely upside-down from an overhead birch branch, flapping his wings dramatically. His round spectacles sit hopelessly crooked across his beak, one lens magnifying a crazed, starry eye. Below, Foxy cradles the star in his paws like an oversized, glowing potato, squinting up at the owl with pure deadpan skepticism.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Enter the forest?s self-appointed resident scholar?whether anyone asked for his expertise or not.

BARNABY:
?A fungus?! Balderdash! Poppycock! What you hold in your paws is a celestial runaway! An astronomical absentee! It belongs to the infinite majestic tapestry of the NIGHT!?

FOXY:
?Cool speech. Your glasses belong on your face, but here we are.?

PANEL 3: The Slingshot Blunder

[VISUAL:]
Disaster in mid-motion! The duo has rigged a thick wild grapevine between two birch trees to form a colossal slingshot. The vine has horribly backfired: instead of launching the star, a stray loop has caught Barnaby around the tail feathers. The owl is being violently whipped backward into the bushes in a blur of feathers, screeching in horror. The grumpy star remains safely seated on a stump, completely unfazed.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan A: Aerodynamic Elasticity.
Otherwise known as an absolute catastrophe.

SFX:
TWAAANGGG-SNAP!

BARNABY:
?FEAR NOT, STELLAR FOUNDLING! SCIENCE WILL RETU?HOOOOO-WHEEEEEEEEEE!?

FOXY:
(Cringing, ears pinned flat)
?Barnaby, watch out for the briar pa?yep, that?s the briar patch.?

THE STAR:
<Tch.>

PANEL 4: The Seesaw Launch

[VISUAL:]
Dynamic high-angle shot! A bruised, ruffled Barnaby is in full swan-dive mode, belly-flopping through the air off a towering boulder. Down below, a thick wooden log is balanced across a mossy boulder like a seesaw. Foxy holds the star steady at the raised tip of the log, bracing with his back against the wood and teeth gritted in anticipation. The star?s eyes go wide as it suddenly realizes what?s about to happen.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan B: Kinetic Displacement.
(Or: launching things by hitting other things very, very hard.)

BARNABY:
(Screaming like a hawk, belly puffed)
?BRACE FOR RETRO-THRUST, FOXY! MAXIMUM MASS INCOMING!?

FOXY:
?Three? two? PLEASE HIT THE TARGET THIS TIME!?

THE STAR:
(Glow flaring bright with alarm)
<EEEEEP!>

PANEL 5: Back Where It Belongs

[VISUAL:]
A glorious panoramic payoff under a dazzling night sky. A brilliant streak of sparkling stardust arcs high into the atmosphere, where the star is now joyfully grinning and twinkling in its proper place in the constellation. Down below, Foxy jumps for joy with paws raised in triumph. Next to him, Barnaby?s plump feathered rear end and spindly talons stick straight up out of the dirt, wiggling frantically where he planted headfirst into the mud.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Liftoff achieved. Another successful triumph for woodland science! Sort of.

SFX (SKY):
FWHHH-SHIIINGG!

SFX (GROUND): THWUMP.

FOXY:
?We did it! Barnaby, look! It?s right back in the Big Dipper!?

BARNABY:
(Muffled entirely beneath three inches of forest loam)
?Mmmph! Splendid! Truly textbook! Now? would anyone mind excavating the scientific community?!?

Panel 4: The Seesaw Launch

Scene: Determined, the ruffled owl belly-flops from a high boulder onto one side of a wooden seesaw log, while Foxy steadies the glowing star on the opposite launch end.

TITLE: GRAVITY?S WORST ENEMY

PANEL 1: A Spark in the Moss

[VISUAL:]
Twilight in the Whispering Woods. Deep velvety blues and mossy greens fill the scene. FOXY, a pint-sized orange fox with adorably oversized ears and a fluffy white-tipped tail, crouches low. With wide, curious eyes, he extends one paw to gingerly poke a small, luminous yellow star stuck in a thick bed of moss. The STAR has stubby little arms, a faint golden aura, and an unmistakably grumpy scowl on its face.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Evening strolls through the woods usually turned up pinecones, stray mushrooms, or the occasional snoozing beetle.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Fallen pieces of the cosmos, however, were not on the evening schedule.

SFX:

POKE.

FOXY:
?Uh? hello? Are you a very spicy fungus, or did the moon accidentally drop a snack??

THE STAR:
(Sizzles irritably)
<BZZZT! Squeak!>

PANEL 2: Enter the Expert

[VISUAL:]
A chubby, frantic BARNABY THE OWL hangs completely upside-down from an overhead birch branch, flapping his wings dramatically. His round spectacles sit hopelessly crooked across his beak, one lens magnifying a crazed, starry eye. Below, Foxy cradles the star in his paws like an oversized, glowing potato, squinting up at the owl with pure deadpan skepticism.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Enter the forest?s self-appointed resident scholar?whether anyone asked for his expertise or not.

BARNABY:
?A fungus?! Balderdash! Poppycock! What you hold in your paws is a celestial runaway! An astronomical absentee! It belongs to the infinite majestic tapestry of the NIGHT!?

FOXY:
?Cool speech. Your glasses belong on your face, but here we are.?

PANEL 3: The Slingshot Blunder

[VISUAL:]
Disaster in mid-motion! The duo has rigged a thick wild grapevine between two birch trees to form a colossal slingshot. The vine has horribly backfired: instead of launching the star, a stray loop has caught Barnaby around the tail feathers. The owl is being violently whipped backward into the bushes in a blur of feathers, screeching in horror. The grumpy star remains safely seated on a stump, completely unfazed.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan A: Aerodynamic Elasticity.
Otherwise known as an absolute catastrophe.

SFX:
TWAAANGGG-SNAP!

BARNABY:
?FEAR NOT, STELLAR FOUNDLING! SCIENCE WILL RETU?HOOOOO-WHEEEEEEEEEE!?

FOXY:
(Cringing, ears pinned flat)
?Barnaby, watch out for the briar pa?yep, that?s the briar patch.?

THE STAR:
<Tch.>

PANEL 4: The Seesaw Launch

[VISUAL:]
Dynamic high-angle shot! A bruised, ruffled Barnaby is in full swan-dive mode, belly-flopping through the air off a towering boulder. Down below, a thick wooden log is balanced across a mossy boulder like a seesaw. Foxy holds the star steady at the raised tip of the log, bracing with his back against the wood and teeth gritted in anticipation. The star?s eyes go wide as it suddenly realizes what?s about to happen.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan B: Kinetic Displacement.
(Or: launching things by hitting other things very, very hard.)

BARNABY:
(Screaming like a hawk, belly puffed)
?BRACE FOR RETRO-THRUST, FOXY! MAXIMUM MASS INCOMING!?

FOXY:
?Three? two? PLEASE HIT THE TARGET THIS TIME!?

THE STAR:
(Glow flaring bright with alarm)
<EEEEEP!>

PANEL 5: Back Where It Belongs

[VISUAL:]
A glorious panoramic payoff under a dazzling night sky. A brilliant streak of sparkling stardust arcs high into the atmosphere, where the star is now joyfully grinning and twinkling in its proper place in the constellation. Down below, Foxy jumps for joy with paws raised in triumph. Next to him, Barnaby?s plump feathered rear end and spindly talons stick straight up out of the dirt, wiggling frantically where he planted headfirst into the mud.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Liftoff achieved. Another successful triumph for woodland science! Sort of.

SFX (SKY):
FWHHH-SHIIINGG!

SFX (GROUND): THWUMP.

FOXY:
?We did it! Barnaby, look! It?s right back in the Big Dipper!?

BARNABY:
(Muffled entirely beneath three inches of forest loam)
?Mmmph! Splendid! Truly textbook! Now? would anyone mind excavating the scientific community?!?

Panel 5: Back Where It Belongs

Scene: The star rockets successfully into the night sky leaving a trail of glitter, while Foxy happily cheers beside the owl, who is stuck headfirst in the ground with feet wiggling in victory.

TITLE: GRAVITY?S WORST ENEMY

PANEL 1: A Spark in the Moss

[VISUAL:]
Twilight in the Whispering Woods. Deep velvety blues and mossy greens fill the scene. FOXY, a pint-sized orange fox with adorably oversized ears and a fluffy white-tipped tail, crouches low. With wide, curious eyes, he extends one paw to gingerly poke a small, luminous yellow star stuck in a thick bed of moss. The STAR has stubby little arms, a faint golden aura, and an unmistakably grumpy scowl on its face.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Evening strolls through the woods usually turned up pinecones, stray mushrooms, or the occasional snoozing beetle.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Fallen pieces of the cosmos, however, were not on the evening schedule.

SFX:

POKE.

FOXY:
?Uh? hello? Are you a very spicy fungus, or did the moon accidentally drop a snack??

THE STAR:
(Sizzles irritably)
<BZZZT! Squeak!>

PANEL 2: Enter the Expert

[VISUAL:]
A chubby, frantic BARNABY THE OWL hangs completely upside-down from an overhead birch branch, flapping his wings dramatically. His round spectacles sit hopelessly crooked across his beak, one lens magnifying a crazed, starry eye. Below, Foxy cradles the star in his paws like an oversized, glowing potato, squinting up at the owl with pure deadpan skepticism.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Enter the forest?s self-appointed resident scholar?whether anyone asked for his expertise or not.

BARNABY:
?A fungus?! Balderdash! Poppycock! What you hold in your paws is a celestial runaway! An astronomical absentee! It belongs to the infinite majestic tapestry of the NIGHT!?

FOXY:
?Cool speech. Your glasses belong on your face, but here we are.?

PANEL 3: The Slingshot Blunder

[VISUAL:]
Disaster in mid-motion! The duo has rigged a thick wild grapevine between two birch trees to form a colossal slingshot. The vine has horribly backfired: instead of launching the star, a stray loop has caught Barnaby around the tail feathers. The owl is being violently whipped backward into the bushes in a blur of feathers, screeching in horror. The grumpy star remains safely seated on a stump, completely unfazed.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan A: Aerodynamic Elasticity.
Otherwise known as an absolute catastrophe.

SFX:
TWAAANGGG-SNAP!

BARNABY:
?FEAR NOT, STELLAR FOUNDLING! SCIENCE WILL RETU?HOOOOO-WHEEEEEEEEEE!?

FOXY:
(Cringing, ears pinned flat)
?Barnaby, watch out for the briar pa?yep, that?s the briar patch.?

THE STAR:
<Tch.>

PANEL 4: The Seesaw Launch

[VISUAL:]
Dynamic high-angle shot! A bruised, ruffled Barnaby is in full swan-dive mode, belly-flopping through the air off a towering boulder. Down below, a thick wooden log is balanced across a mossy boulder like a seesaw. Foxy holds the star steady at the raised tip of the log, bracing with his back against the wood and teeth gritted in anticipation. The star?s eyes go wide as it suddenly realizes what?s about to happen.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Plan B: Kinetic Displacement.
(Or: launching things by hitting other things very, very hard.)

BARNABY:
(Screaming like a hawk, belly puffed)
?BRACE FOR RETRO-THRUST, FOXY! MAXIMUM MASS INCOMING!?

FOXY:
?Three? two? PLEASE HIT THE TARGET THIS TIME!?

THE STAR:
(Glow flaring bright with alarm)
<EEEEEP!>

PANEL 5: Back Where It Belongs

[VISUAL:]
A glorious panoramic payoff under a dazzling night sky. A brilliant streak of sparkling stardust arcs high into the atmosphere, where the star is now joyfully grinning and twinkling in its proper place in the constellation. Down below, Foxy jumps for joy with paws raised in triumph. Next to him, Barnaby?s plump feathered rear end and spindly talons stick straight up out of the dirt, wiggling frantically where he planted headfirst into the mud.

CAPTION (NARRATION):
Liftoff achieved. Another successful triumph for woodland science! Sort of.

SFX (SKY):
FWHHH-SHIIINGG!

SFX (GROUND): THWUMP.

FOXY:
?We did it! Barnaby, look! It?s right back in the Big Dipper!?

BARNABY:
(Muffled entirely beneath three inches of forest loam)
?Mmmph! Splendid! Truly textbook! Now? would anyone mind excavating the scientific community?!?